

ABSTRACT

This invention relates to methods of autologous transplantation for the treatment of damaged or diseased 5 tissues, muscle, or organs. This invention also relates to methods of allogeneic transplantation for the treatment of damaged tissues and organs. In the methods of the invention, cells are obtained by apheresis and implanted into the tissue, muscle, or organ to ameliorate 10 damage or disease.